

“I now know what it is to be Me”

The Intimate in Claudel’s Biblical Commentaries

Publication type: Journal article

Journal: Bulletin de la Société Paul Claudel
2022 - 3, n° 238. Claudel et l'intime

Author: Benoteau-Alexandre (Marie-Ève)

Abstract: The biblical commentaries are, in the Claudelian corpus, the place where the vocabulary of the intimate is most present. This article explores the Claudelian conception of the "intimate", which is much closer to the classical meaning of the term than to its contemporary meaning. As the depths of the soul, the place of spiritual interiority, the "intimate" is par excellence the place where the personality is abolished to make room, in communication with the Other, for the true nature of the child of God of every Christian.

Pages: 37 to 46

Journal: Bulletin of the Paul Claudel Society

CLIL theme: 4027 -- SCIENCES HUMAINES ET SOCIALES, LETTRES -- Lettres et Sciences du langage -- Lettres -- Etudes littéraires générales et thématiques

EAN: 9782406144557

ISBN: 978-2-406-14455-7

ISSN: 2262-3108

DOI: 10.48611/isbn.978-2-406-14455-7.p.0037

Publisher: Classiques Garnier

Online publication: 12-28-2022

Periodicity: Four-monthly

Language: French

Keyword: commentaries, personality, vocabulary, interiority, Christian

Display online