

'Tout ainsi pourrions-nous bien faire de la langue de Court'

The Champ fleury of Geoffroy Tory, a Treaty of Courtesy?

Publication type: Journal article

Journal: Encomia
2022, n° 44. varia

Author: Maillard (Sandy)

Abstract: In 1529, Geoffroy Tory publishes the Champ Fleury with the intention of providing the French language with rules and models that would bring it to its highest degree of linguistic and moral perfection. This work, which reflects the poetic transition between the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, soon reveals a preoccupation similar to that of the courtly poets with the art of bien dire. The aim of this article is to investigate how far Champ Fleury can be considered a treaty of courtesy, and how it contributes to redefining this notion.

Pages: 127 to 142

Journal: Encomia

CLIL theme: 4027 -- SCIENCES HUMAINES ET SOCIALES, LETTRES -- Lettres et Sciences du langage -- Lettres -- Etudes littéraires générales et thématiques

EAN: 9782406167266

ISBN: 978-2-406-16726-6

ISSN: 2430-8226

DOI: 10.48611/isbn.978-2-406-16726-6.p.0127

Publisher: Classiques Garnier

Online publication: 04-24-2024

Periodicity: Annual

Language: French

Keyword: Geoffroy Tory, Champ fleury, courtesy, bien dire, French, language, letters, typography, pronunciation, grammar, French nation

Display online