

Rabelais wine. From vine to divine, spanning Chinon to South Africa

Publication type: Journal article

Journal: L'Année rabelaisienne
2021, n° 5. varia

Author: Pantagruel (L'architriclin de)

Abstract: Rabelais is a name that has long been associated with viticulture, particularly in the Chinon region of France. But the most exotic case of this use of the writer's fame is the wine Rabelais produced by Thelema Mountain Vineyards, a family vineyard in South Africa founded in 1988. Produced from a mixture of Cabernet Sauvignon and Petit Verdot, Rabelais represents the best red wine of the vintage, boasting a strong reputation and great success as an export.

Pages: 463 to 465

Journal: The Year of Rabelais

CLIL theme: 4027 -- SCIENCES HUMAINES ET SOCIALES, LETTRES -- Lettres et Sciences du langage --
Lettres -- Etudes littéraires générales et thématiques

EAN: 9782406115045

ISBN: 978-2-406-11504-5

ISSN: 2554-9111

DOI: 10.15122/isbn.978-2-406-11504-5.p.0463

Publisher: Classiques Garnier

Online publication: 04-29-2021

Periodicity: Annual

Language: French

Keyword: viticulture, Rabelais's reputation, wine marketing, Thelema Mountain Vineyards, Abbey of Thelema, South Africa, Algeria, Alsace, Chinon, Médoc

Display online