

Pierre Teilhard de Chardin dans la guerre

Publication type: Article from a collective work

Collective work: La Grande Guerre des écrivains : études

Author: Beaudin (Jean-Dominique)

Abstract: Serving as a stretcher-bearer and chaplain, the Jesuit priest also found time to compose essays and address letters to his cousin which testify to his human and spiritual experiences. He looked at the nature which surrounded him with the eyes of a scholar, theologian, and poet, and meditated on the divine œuvre, sketching out a system in which dogma was compatible with the theory of evolution. He called for a spiritual victory with his vows and, despite the horrors of war, put himself entirely in the hands of Providence.
