

Questions méthodologiques pour construire la « ville » à partir des ESLOs

Publication type: Article from a collective work

Abstract: The authors present their methodological choices for the treatment of the corpus with the aim of accounting for the variation, considering three levels. At a macro level, the parameters of the situations are looked at with respect to the factors retained in the variationist approach. The micro level considers each interaction. Finally, the observation of the form of the language constitutes a third level. We report on the three levels's combination by evaluating the situation relativized at each stage.
